Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 21 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cardinal, Jr. in view of Benson et al.

Cardinal, Jr. discloses, Figs. 2 and 4, a method of lining a surface with a geosynthetic liner 4 utilizing a dispenser having base 7, with a chassis or carriage mounted upon the base. A pair of cradle rollers is at 9, 10 supporting the geosynthetic roll. Guide roller is at 17. Cardinal, Jr. desires an appropriate overlap between sheets of material when placed on the ground.

Benson et al. discloses, Figs. 3 and 4, a dispenser for roll of material having movable base 16, with a chassis or carriage transversely movable, (by actuator), upon the base, lines 4-6 of the abstract and col. 1, lines 50-65. Benson also discloses a pair of cradle rollers 33, 34, guide roller 24 or 25, and a pair of adjustable alignment arms as can be seen in upper portion of Fig. 3.

To have provided any of the trucks of Cardinal, Jr. with a transversely movable carriage, (by actuator means), thus allowing for an appropriate overlap of material along either side of the truck, would have constituted an obvious expedient to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by Benson et al.

3. Claims 23-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cardinal, Jr. in view of Benson et al. as applied to claims 1, 2, 6-8, 11, 12, 14-16, and 18-20 above, and further in view of Barazone.

Barazone discloses a pair of adjustable width alignment arms 44 to sandwich a roll of material therebetween with hydraulic piston 50 serving to actuate the alignment arms.

To have provided the modified Cardinal, Jr. assembly with adjustable width alignment arms, thus providing for a secure support for the roll of material as well as allow ease of material installation, would have constituted an obvious expedient to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by Barazone. To have further provided for hydraulic piston actuators to move the modified Cardinal, Jr. assembly carriage, thus utilizing a strong actuating means, would have constituted a further obvious expedient to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by Barazone's pistons 50.

Art Unit: 3673

4. Claims 24 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cardinal, Jr. in view of Benson et al. as applied to claims 1, 2, 6-8, 11, 12, 14-16, and 18-20 above, and further in view of Schwien et al.

Schwien et al. discloses a pair of adjustable width alignment arms 72 to sandwich a roll of material therebetween. To have provided the modified Cardinal, Jr. assembly with adjustable width alignment arms, thus providing for a secure support for the roll of material as well as allow ease of material installation, would have constituted an obvious expedient to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by Schwien et al.

5. Claims 23-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cardinal, Jr. in view of Benson et al. and Schwien et al. as applied to claim 17 above, and further in view of Barazone.

Barazone discloses a pair of adjustable width alignment arms 44 to sandwich a roll of material therebetween with hydraulic piston 50 serving to actuate the alignment arms.

To have provided the telescoping, rotatable adjustable width alignment arms of the modified Cardinal, Jr. assembly with hydraulic piston actuators, thus providing a forceful and sturdy actuating device, would have constituted an obvious expedient to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by Barazone. To have further provided for hydraulic piston actuators to move the modified Cardinal, Jr. assembly carriage, thus utilizing a strong actuating means, would have constituted a further obvious expedient to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made as taught by Barazone's pistons 50.
